INSET/ "non-contact" days for teachers:

Over a school year, pupils are required to attend for 190 days/380 sessions. In total, teachers may be required to be available for work on up to 195 days, with the additional days specified by individual schools as non-contact days. Individual schools may also require teachers to work additional hours before or after school sessions, as an alternative to full non-contact days, provided that any teacher is not required to work in aggregate more than 1,265 hours during a school year. Schools may therefore choose to require teachers to make up the full equivalent of the 5 non-contact days wholly through additional hours, or use a mixture of additional hours and non-contact days.

N.B. Schools have consistently argued that weeks at the start or end of terms should wherever possible be complete weeks; to achieve the 195 days in the calendar for 2009/10, schools could be asked whether they would prefer either a 3 day week at the start of September (Term 1), which would mean the last week of the year in July (Term 6) could be a complete week or whether they would prefer to have a 4 day week at the start of September, which would mean the last week of the year in July would also have to be a 4 rather than 5 day week .

Similar issues will also arise over the length of weeks at the start and end of the following academic year (2010/11), but no decision is required immediately.
